Why choose Märting & Nitsch for data security

■ Data security exclusively

By having data security issues dealt with by an external service provider, the know-how of professionals will be conveyed who exclusively deal with these issues and who are up to date with the latest developments.

■ Professionally up to date

Otherwise, the instructing company would need to establish its own human resources for whom these tasks would only be a regular side-line job. As a consequence, it would only be hard to become and - above all - to stay professionally up to date.

■ Legal practitioners and IT specialists

Märting & Nitsch Group recognized the relevance of data security as early as in 2002 and has specialized in this field. Märting & Nitsch employs both legal practitioners and IT specialists in order to cover the whole range of data protection and data security.

■ Implementation & liability

Märting & Nitsch especially offers the implementation of the recommended solutions in the enterprise. Should the client nevertheless be caused any damage by a third party resulting from false advice, Märting & Nitsch shall be liable for such damage.

mn Why choose Märting & Nitsch for data security

- Interests of all parties concerned

When fulfilling the order, the external data security commissioner is close to the management. He understands the assessment process between corporate interests and personal interests of the staff. Furthermore, measures taken in these areas will strengthen customer confidence.

- Data security – without a sound

Hence, solutions can be elaborated that do not interfere with the company's economic efficiency and that nevertheless guarantee confidentiality and data security for employees and clients.

- Lawyer

As data security issues are handled by a lawyer, we are also fully capable of representing our clients in conflicts, be it before a court or in case of regulatory measures by authorities.
